Chauvin's 'Thirteenth' Fair Proves Complete Success

"Thirteen" is regarded by some who still retain some superstition in their nature of "un-lucky". In some parts of the world this number is regarded as having a quality of "luck" and "good fortune". But the directors of the Chauvin Agricultural Society are not deeply stirred by such vagaries of superstition, nor do they "watch the clouds" or fear "the lion in the way" in the way of difficulties of financing the adverse seasons, and thus they carried through the fair this year with the help of their loyal supporters to a big success.

As was to be expected there was some diminution in the number of entries in some sections, and the total entries were about equal to those of three years ago. A remarkable record, when we call to mind that Edgerton and Wainwright hold no fair this year, and that Provost has indefinitely postponed their's.

The receipts at the gate came in slowly until the afternoon was well advanced at which time they increased in numbers and a good gate was obtained before the afternoon was finished.

Among the horses were several animals of outstanding merit, and the horses as a whole reflected great credit on the district.

The value of good breeding stock has been well exemplified by this Chauvin fair in horses, and particularly in cattle. Some splendid grade animals, highly suitable for their purposes being on exhibition, indicating the presence of numbers of others throughout the district.

The showing of cattle contained a large number of most excellent animals of high standard. Strongest in numbers were the Polled Herefords, of which Mr.

Russnell, of Edgerton, had a fine herd on show.

Perhaps the best looking cattle on exhibit were the Aberdeen Angus with their short silky hair their generally trim appearance and perfect condition.

Dual purpose and dairy grades were also strong and contained a number of outstanding animals.

It is pleasing to note that one result of the children's calf competitors in the earlier years is shown in a number of children and young persons from the local farms now being included in the list of winners in the senior sections.

The Shorthorn and Durham exhibits were seriously diminished its numbers. Some of our old time exhibitors not being present amongst whom are G. Snell, H. C. Dunlop and Strachan Bros, each of whose herds were greatly missed, and hopes expressed that we shall see them back next year.

Because of the dry weather that has held back growth in all local gardens, the number of exhibits in the garden classes, but those exhibits shown were sufficient to demonstrate that we can still produce real good stuff. Some very good rhubarb, beets, peas, onions and potatoes being exhibited. Tomatoes, parsnips and the carrots being hardly mature and of needle art.

The local ladies contributed a most excellent display of embroidery work of the highest standard of needle art.

The butter makers of this locality fully proved the high quality of their manufactures at the fair. The judge finding the task of awarding prizes correctly in this section one of peculiar difficulty.

Some of the cooking by the children was really remarkable, we shall surely have some good housewives in the next generation.

The exhibit of noxious weeds received the highest praise from the judge, Mr. Newton. The exhibit of the L. Fahner children being very complete and most carefully prepared.

True to the principles of an agricultural society the days programme included no "catch-penny" amusements, but had a full program of races for the children which were keenly contested, and greatly enjoyed. Also a program of other events of really agricultural interest, such as harnessing contest won by C. Harris with F. Ryall taking second prize. The hauling contest also excited great interest and after a keen contest was won by Robert McCluskey, H. L. Bingham being close second, and E. B. Lang third.

A number entered the competition for estimating the weight of a steer, and the horse races and ed. (We will have well competed these events in the week, our lists not being complete nor verified).

To finish off the activities of the day were a picture show and these being well patronized and enjoyed.

H. E. Spencer Advocates Awarding Fair Share Of Mail Contracts To Canadian National Rlys

During the course of the debate in the house of commons, at Ottawa, on the carriage of postal mails, on July 18th last, Mr. H. E. Spencer, member for Battle river made the following speech.

"Confirming the statement of the hon. member for Bow River, I want to put a few figures on Hansard. Like the minister I been inundated with telegrams in this matter and I think it will be readily conceded that we should have as good service as possible particularly when mails are carried by our own railway. The delivery of western mail at important stations west of Winnipeg would be greatly expedited as follows:—

Rivers, Man; 24 hours.

Melville, Sask; 24 hours

Watrous, Sask; 24 hours.

Saskatoon, Sask; Noon delivery instead of 3.4 p.m., which would enable letters to be answered and reply mailed on the day received.

Biggar, Sask; 24 hours.

Edmonton, and all points west of Edmonton on C.N.R.; 24 hours.

Eastbound mail from points west of Winnipeg to Ottawa, Montreal and east thereof would arrive at destination in nearly all cases 24 hours earlier than at present.

Locally, in western Canada the handling of all mail matter would be greatly expedited.

Mail between Winnipeg and every important business centre west of Winnipeg and east of Edmonton and all C.N.R. stations east of Edmonton, on the one hand,

All stations west of Edmonton—would be expedited 24 hours.

The handling of mail between Vancouver and Edmonton and the delivery at Vancouver or Edmonton as the case may be will be expedited from 8 to 2. hours varying according to the time at which the letter is posted, all such mail now be handled via Calgary.

I hope the minister will give the Canadian National Railways their full share of the contracts."

"Ginger Group Jolts Parliament" The Progressives As Seen By J. K. Munro, In McLean's Magazine

Under the caption of "The Ginger Group Jolts Parliament," J. K. Munro, a talented writer in MacLeans Magazine, of August 1st make some very interesting comments.

Before presenting his remarks to our readers, we wish to point out that Mr Munro is a very talented writer, clever in his portrayals, and rich in humor and satire, and that he treats all parties alike, without fear or favor. To illustrate, we will give you two other quotations from the same article:

"Hon. W. L. Mack. King has muddled through and emerged politically, if not personally, stronger than he was at the start. There may be a special providence that takes care of boy premiers. If there is, he has been working overtime looking after Willie King. Not only did he blunder into a budget that endeared him to the west, but he was forced into a position that forced him to vote with the losers in the Church Union fight."

And the second quotation:—"Across the floor there is little or no improvement. Hon. Arthur Meighen is just about the same, thank you. He's still the greatest of critics and worst of politicians. As a leader he leads himself and the rest straggle along ever in any way they like, if he blunders, he blunders. We because they have grown so tired of the King government that they decided to put it out no matter who or what comes in its place."

With this introduction we pass on to the remarks of Mr. Munro relative to the "Ginger Group."

"With the old parties practically agreed on the Redistribution Bill, ministers packing their trunks for Wembley, and the heat bearing down upon the capital with unbroken front, the symbeen called and agitator. Hereptoms all indicator (as I began this screed) that the end of the Session was at last in sight. It is one of the unmistakable laws of nature that when it gets too hot to talk, oratory must cease. And when oratory ceases, parliament must perforce prorogue.

The one obstacle in the path of an early July prorogation was the Broncho Progressive group. They are ten in number, this undaunted band, but they have more ideas per head than any aggregation ever wished on a suffering legislature. Also, they have more words than ideas. They are wild and woolly independents who have found the mild rule of Robert Forke the heaviest of fetters—men who will bow to no interference and who doubt that even Providence can get along without their personal and perpetual assistance.

They have no leader. They just keep kicking and whether they do it in unison matters not just so long as they kick. They have raked the political horizon for some one they might follow. They have considered everything available from the exalted spiritualism of Hon. Wesley Rowell to the rugged stolidity of Hon. J. W. Daffoe. Nothing fits the job. This is an oratorical situation. The man or woman—for Agnes McPhail has smiled upon this new group—who talks loudest and longest may get the job.

Who are they, you ask, in this latest improvement on things political? You've probably heard of, if you haven't heard, some of them before. Garland, of Bow River, has talked most to date and must consequently be mentioned first. He's from Ireland and is reported to have a talking diploma from Dublin University. "Over Home" they would have he's a statesman. Coote, of McLeod, comes next. He's an authority on finance. Spencer, of Battle River is his running mate in the financial stakes. Anything these two have not moved in way of an amendment to the Bank Act is of minor importance. Then there is Good, of Brant. He admits that he is an economist as well as a farmer, that makes him study economy. Gardner, of Medicine Hat, is there too, prepared to advise the country on any or all subjects and occasions. Agnes McPhail, too. But of Agnes it must be said that she does not exercise too frequently either of the alleged feminine privileges of talking and changing her mind. She talks infrequently and to the point and has stuck to her first platform closer than any member of the Progressive party. She is one of the few members of any party who has grown in the esteem of her colleagues during this long dreary session now happily drawing to a close.

These are the outstanding members of the "Bronchos." The others, Campbell, of Mackenzie; Ward, of Dauphin; Kennedy, of Edmonton; and Elliott, of Dundas are just plain ordinary journeyman talkers who can fill in a day's conversation.

And these gentlemen—and lady—farmers were the only obstacles between hard working statesmen and the harvest fields. When they ran down we all went home.

Meanwhile it is worth while to glance backward and try to discover what the session has brought forth. And you find that there has not been even the usual ounce of action for the pound of talk. In the matter of men none has risen to fame, and few have done much more than was expected of them."

Here and There

Up to the end of May, 1924, over 779,000,000 fry of different kinds were distributed throughout Canada from the fish hatcheries operated by the Department of Marine and Fisheries, a recent despatch from Ottawa declares.

A surplus of $363,011 is shown in the annual report of the Vancouver Board of Harbor Commissioners for the year 1923. Receipts totalled $725,880. There was an increase of $481,797 in the value of all exports and imports. The actual value of all freights was $40,693,924.

Among the passengers sailing for England on the Canadian Pacific steamship "Marloch" July 3rd from Montreal was a large party of teachers, who will join the tour of the Overseas Educational League, which this year is covering Great Britain, France and Belgium.

A set of 12 beautiful colored pictorial menu cards illustrative of the history and romance of Canada has just been placed in service by the Canadian Pacific Railway on its crack transcontinental expresses, the Trans-Canada Limited and the Mountaineer. Especially interesting are four reproducing authentic photographs of prairie Indians, accompanied by descriptive text.

The newsprint production in May this year both for Canadian and United States mills was greater than the previous months. Canadian mills made a new high record, the total for the month being 117,833 tons, compared with a previous high figure of 115,572 tons and their production for the first five months of the year exceeded that of 1923 by 56,087 tons or approximately 11 per cent.

"Canada is the country for the Scotsman and I am going to bring every opportunity that Canada can offer, especially in farming, before my compatriots," declared the Rev. William Dunlop, M.A., F.S.A., of Buckhaven, Fifeshire, when in Montreal recently, on a tour of the Dominion investigating its agricultural possibilities. "But you are sadly in need of more people and we can supply them."

"The Scottish Harvester's Dream"

T. W. Campbell, M.A., F.E.T.S.
(Copyright 1924)

There are times in the life of the immigrant, even when surrounded with new friends in a new land, he feels lonesome for his Homeland.

I am at home now.
I see the hills of dear old Scotland, the mountains towering into the sky, while the sun sinks behind them with regal splendour; outshining the glories of ancient or modern kings. The radiant and ever-changing color of the evening sunset play among the heather on the hills, and give it colors of crimson, purple and heliotrope. The sounds of nature are audible around me, and as I close my eyes in day-dreams, I can hear the tremulous call of the lambs, and the deeper bleat of the mother sheep. The bee drones mournfully as he toils for his queen. The butterfly with its gorgeously colored wings rises and falls gracefully, and de lights the eye of the dreamer as it pursues its uncertain course. I can hear the cry of the curlew from the hills, and as the even- ing shadows fall I can hear the "call of the mavis.

The sun sinks behind the hills and I linger on in the coolness of a Scottish evening. Beneath the silver gleaming ray of the moon, and the sparkling stars of night, I can see the dark form of the owls as they fly from one tree to another, beraking the silence of the night with their eerie and uncanny calls. I look into the dark foliage of the trees, and I think of the linnet in its nest, and the tiny unfeathered tots that rest beneath its wing. I love these little birds that hop and fly in the daytime, and sleep at night under the blue canopy of heav- en. This is my dream of dear old Scotland, of Home and Home- land. But the world for ever turns and I find myself in a prairie town in the Far West of Canada.

How different is life here in Ribstone. The social atmosphere seems to be affected by the nat- ural conditions of the elements. Just as we have extremes in the climatic conditions, so we have extremes in sociability, and the social atmosphere of this prairie land is a most important thing in the life of a prairie farmer. I have met many friends wh wel- come me with the warmth of summer, and others who influenc- ed me like a wintry day. but like everything else that freezes, they gradually thawed and became my warm friends.

The prairie is the place for friendship—abiding, enduring friendship where a man will as- sist a fellow who encounters mis- fortune.

I love the prairies, the wide, rolling, romantic prairie with its wide expanse of pasture, where the cattle browse in contentment, and the colts frolic in unlimited space. Where in the still quiet- ness of the evening, the stranger may stand enthralled by the glory of the northern lights, as they form their fantastic shapes in the heavens.

I shall never forget my sojourn at Ribstone in the fall of last year. In that serene little spot on the prairie, the farmers would gather with the harvesters when the day's toil was over, a few fiddles would tune up, and an evenig of song and dances would be enjoyed by all. A spirit of brotherhood and com- radeship existed, and when the harvest was garnered, and the Old Country Harvesters depart- ed, the happy scenes at the sta- tion will ever be a happy memory to the emigrants.

These were happy days, but nevertheless, as I sit in my shack in this town of the west, I yearn for the land of the mountain, the river and glen, where the blue- bell and primrose scent the soft vinds of the morning, where the thorn and the bracken sway to- gether in the evening gale, where the birds chorus in song for the re-turn of spring, and the daisies and buttercups make the earth seem gay.—(All rights reserved)

TRAIN RADIO OPERATOR

THE wireless operator is a familiar and sought for fig- ure on the ocean liners of to- day. The radio operator aboard the all-steel Continental Limited, the transcontinental express of the Canadian National Railways, is fast becoming known and daily he is fulfilling his part of the work of the regular train crew on that service. The photograph illus- trates the uniforms worn by the radio operators, similar in many respects to that of the operator of the ocean liner, but bearing on the lapels and cap the monogram of the Canadian National Railways. The suit is tailored of fine blue serge with double breasted coat with gold buttons and one stripe of gold braid on the sleeve, indi- cating the rank. The Canadian National Railways are the first company to inaugurate this service as a regular part of their equip- ment.

Editorial Comment

A recent analysis of the news contents of a typical group of five American newspapers, five English, five French, and five German, revealed some very interesting features.

The American papers put business first with a twenty-one per cent allotment of space. In the English, French and German papers the foreign news occupied the largest percentage of space.

Sports and amusements tied for second place in the American papers, whilst business and sports also tied for a similar position in the English papers. In France amusements held the second position, and in Germany business.

Politics and police news tied for fourth place in American papers. In English papers politics held third place with police news as fourth. France gave business the third place with police news as fourth; and in Germany, politics came third with amusements in the fourth place.

Foreign news was given fifth position with arts as sixth in the American papers. These places being given in the English papers to amusements, in the French papers to arts and sports; and in the German to police and arts, in the order mentioned.

It is indicative that the European papers should give the premier place to foreign news, while the American give business that position. Sports taking a high position in the Anglo-Saxon papers but are of less importance to France and Germany. Amusements rank higher in American and continental papers than they do in the English. Political and police news occupy a central position—politics leading in America and England and particularly in Germany; whilst in France police news exceeded political news in amount of space used.

The recent charge that newspapers devote too large a space to news of crime is not proven, though it is to be admitted that some papers do sensationalize this class of reading. The future tendency will be toward a reduction of the amount of space devoted to crime news.

The general public are demanding a better class of reading matter, and in this factor is found the greatest safeguard for the modern newspaper, since it is the strongest counteracting force to the tendency of the advertising and business departments of the paper to destroy the "idealism" that should characterize every paper that reaches the public.

Whenever and wherever a helping hand is needed in this district, there are always many who are willing to do their "little bit" and go home and forget all about it. That is one great characteristic of the people of this district.

There are some who wonder what has become of the open-handed generosity and good-fellowship that existed in the pioneering days. Some have made up their minds that that sort of thing died a natural death with the passing of the pioneer period. The fact of the matter is that with changing days and varying conditions the expression of neighborliness changes also, and when the need arises the good-fellowship is ready for the occasion and the helping hand is given.

Brains are as common as men, but intelligence is as rare as success.

RELIEF OF SUFFERING

Following close on the heels of Dr. Glover's tuberculosis serum, and Dr. Banting's insulin, comes a cure for paralysis by Professor Hunter and Dr. Boyle of Sidney, N.S.W., and who claims to have obtained remarkable results. Research having to do with the relief of human suffering is one of the best finger points of the present age.

ADVERTISE IN THE "CHRONICLE"

Eighty Acres Plowed In One Day By 'Bee'

Eighty acres plowed in one day is the record accomplished by the plowing bee that visited the farms of Walter and Maxwell Scott, on Tuesday July 29th.

With twenty outfits working together at the same time, the scene was an animated one; whilst in the house Mrs. C. Sigurdson, Mrs. T. Scott and Mrs. D. Dundas were equally busy preparing meals for the workers who came in with a hearty desire to eat everything in sight.

Among those who donated their services on this occasion were:—Chris. Sigurdson, W. Montgomery, W. Johnson, Frank Cargill; Charles Cargill; Norman Cargill; John Cargill; W. Baynham; Ed. Baynham; P. Manson; W. J. Harris; J. Buck; E. Callin; T. Mansell; D. Dundas; W. Dundas; Edgar Scott; Arthur Scott; F. Henschaw; Lorne McClelland; Mr. L. Fahner, who was unable to turn out owing to the sickness of Mrs. Fahner, came a few days later and added his quota to the work done by the bee. Dave Dundas acted efficiently as overseer.

"Your girl is something of a riddle to me."
"Yes, I am thinking of giving her up myself."

At Wembley a little girl accosted an official outside the Australian section and asked him "Please sir, can you tell me what time the Australians are fed?"

A few moments later, however, the missing lady entered the romm, and the happy couple received a most hearty ovation.

The solicitor was getting tired of modern methods. A stranger called on him one day and began in the usual fashion. "I want to know if I have grounds for di-voce."

"Are you married?" asked the solicitor.
